

Hi Elena,

I love what you have so far!! It really looks great, and your improvements from last time are definitely noticeable as well! I love what you did with the navigation bar, having it float then stick when scrolling on the home page. A few notes:

- The page is not responsive to different page sizes - as in I went on the website on my phone and the text was super tiny - make sure you make it responsive!
- This is more design related, but maybe a little more line spacing in the body text would help to make it more readable!
- Also another thing to watch out for - when you make the page smaller in width, the upper text becomes unreadable - on each house page, you can't read the title - I'd increase the top margin using @media!
- Also, I don't know if it would be possible to have some title of "Hogwarts..." somewhere on each house page because that part goes away and if someone didn't click on the home page they might not know what the houses were.
- on the home page, when the screen is full size, the houses above the navigation bar get cut off a bit - maybe move all the title stuff "Hogwarts" etc up a bit to help with this!

Overall, it looks awesome!! Great job!
